We would like to invite you to consider supporting and sponsoring the 32nd ICOH Congress in Dublin, Ireland 29th April – 4th May 2018. If you have a commercial, academic or regulatory interest in occupational health and safety – this is the Congress for you to get your message or products in front of an influential audience.

ICOH2018 is a major global Congress for occupational health and safety practitioners, policy makers and researchers from across a range of related disciplines. The event is held once every three years, moving around the world and it is ten years since it was last in Europe.

We expect to attract around 2,900 delegates who are respected in their various professional fields. Our theme is Occupational health and wellbeing: linking research to practice. To deliver on this, we will have, over five days, an excellent blend of plenary, semi-plenary and parallel sessions on a range of the latest occupational health and safety topics. The Congress offers a unique opportunity for delegates to experience a truly global multi-disciplinary event where they can learn, discuss and share views with various contributors and practitioners from across the world. They will also benefit from the exchange of ideas and practice, which contributes to advancing research, policy and interventions.

We ask you to seriously consider coming to Dublin and help us deliver a truly unique event and take the opportunity to showcase your business, organisation and products to what will be the biggest gathering of occupational health and safety experts in Europe for a decade. The Congress will take place in the iconic Convention Centre Dublin and we look forward to having you with us at this important, informative and stimulating event where we promise you a great Irish welcome.

The International Commission on Occupational Health (ICOH) is an international non-governmental professional society founded in 1906 in Milan, as the Permanent Commission on Occupational Health.

Today, ICOH is the world’s leading international scientific society in the field of occupational health, with a membership of 2,000 professionals from 93 countries and is recognised by the United Nations as a non-governmental organisation (NGO) with close working relationships with ILO, WHO, UNEP and ISSA.

ICOH has the following main objectives:

• To enhance the knowledge of members in the field of occupational health;
• To generate and disseminate scientific knowledge in occupational health;
• To support and promote use of knowledge in occupational health practice and in training;
• To promote and maintain the highest standards of moral and professional commitment to the health and safety of workers and their families.

International Congress on Occupational Health started in Milan, Italy in 1906. The triennial Congress is the most visible activity of ICOH (International Commission on Occupational Health) whose aims are to foster the scientific progress, knowledge and development in occupational health and safety. The ICOH Congress is now one of the world’s largest international Congresses in the field of occupational health and safety, where experts from all around the world gather every three years to share their experience and knowledge. In 2015, the Congress was held in Seoul, South Korea and in 2018 will be hosted in Dublin, Ireland, following which in 2021, it will be held in Melbourne, Australia.

The Congress includes an international safety and health exhibition which offers exhibitors and sponsors access to a high-level event which brings together a range of professional occupational health and safety delegates, as well as international organisations, including ICOH, WHO and the ILO.

Exhibitors and sponsors will have a golden opportunity to introduce delegates to their organisations, brands and relevant products and equipment. The Exhibition and sponsorship opportunities will provide a chance for you to build a solid network with key safety and health experts and maximize exposure to your business, organisation and products. The Dublin 2018 Organising Committee are excited to offer this opportunity and invite you to actively participate in the Congress and help us make it a huge success for all parties.
The Congress is being hosted by the Faculty of Occupational Medicine, Royal College of Physicians of Ireland. The Faculty is the national professional and training body for Occupational Medicine in Ireland, working to ensure the highest standards in health at work and deliver postgraduate specialist training in that specialty. We have over 600 members based in Ireland, the UK and across the world.

We play a vital role in supporting and training doctors and influencing the future direction of the medical profession. This includes providing educational congresses and programmes; setting and maintaining standards for professional examinations; advising government, statutory bodies and other expert groups on matters relating to occupational medicine; and representing our members’ interests at a national and international level on professional, legislative and regulatory matters.

The Royal College of Physicians of Ireland, founded in 1654, is a postgraduate medical training college dedicated to the education and training of doctors. The College is committed to advocating for excellence in healthcare practice and delivery as well as helping doctors enhance their skills, competencies and professionalism throughout their working lives. The mission is to train, educate and continuously develop doctors for current and future world health needs.

The vision is to lead excellence and quality in medical practice through world-class training, education and healthcare improvements in Ireland and internationally. There is a global network with 10,000 Fellows, Members, Licentiates and Trainees working across 25 medical specialties in 84 countries. There are four international Academies: India, Oman, China (Hong Kong) and the United Arab Emirates (Dubai).
